Foreword

VOCATIONAL HIGH SCHOOL AND TECHNICAL INSTITUTE, in the heart of Minneapolis, symbolizes for us students a promise that, once we have achieved our purpose here, we will be ready for the industrial and commercial life of this great city, whose sounds of life pulse at the very doors of our school. It is a pulse which finds an answering rhythm in our hearts, for youth wants to work, and we are eager to join our city's life-stream.

What are we doing to prepare ourselves for such a future? In our trade classes, we are learning to work and plan; in our academic classes, to think critically as well as creatively. Our school organizations and sports programs teach us how to work together for a common goal. Interweaving all these serious objectives are the "fun times", when we relax and really learn to know and enjoy our fellow students.

When this process is complete, we will be ready to step forth as citizens with a stake in our city's future. . . .

Dedicated to

. . . "all future builders—those who will build into our city all that they know of love and beauty."

of our school*

The faces pictured here will recall thousands of memories of our school life—the benches we have warmed, the lines we have stood in, the counters and desks we have leaned on.... Sometimes these faces had frowns which suggested we'd better mend our ways, and other times they were crinkled with laughter at our quips and boners. Whatever emotions these faces revealed, their owners were important to our success, for they guided us with whatever techniques they thought we'd respond to, whether reproof or encouragement. . . . Whatever it was they did, successful or unsuccessful in their attempts to guide us toward responsible citizenship, we think their goal was to help us to achieve our goal, and so we will remember them with honor.

A word from our Principal . . .

Each of us is endowed with a different set of talents, skills, aptitudes and interests which combine to give us the qualifications for a certain job or field of work. The degree to which we can apply these qualifications in our daily living determines our success or failure in the paths we choose for our life work.

The key to happiness in life lies not in what we do for ourselves, but in what we do for others. It is well that we pause from time to time to analyze ourselves to make sure that we are making full use of our talents, not only for our own satisfaction and advancement, but more important, that we are contributing to the welfare of our fellowmen, and to this great country which presents to us not only the heritage of the past but the hopes of the future.

—MR. NORMAN A. JENSEN, Principal

... and from our Assistant Principal—

Vocational High School and Technical Institute stands for purpose in thoughts and effort. It is assumed that students attending this school have a plan for their future. For some that plan will materialize and for others it will change.

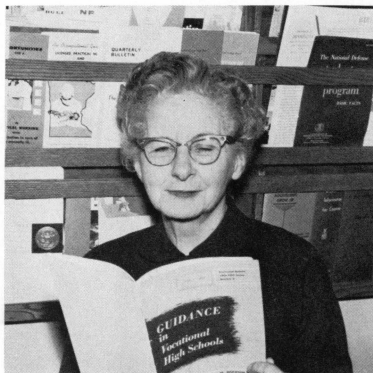

There will be many choices to make requiring decisions, and one must keep in mind that it is the exception when one achieves a goal without well-designed plans and the determination to see them through. Rarely do we fail to realize a desire if we properly set our sights on an objective. Conditions and events may at times obscure our vision and make it difficult to see into the future; nevertheless, one must anticipate and plan for the days ahead. One needs to have an aim in life for which to strive and the faith to believe that his efforts will be rewarded.

It is our wish that you will go forth and become a useful part of your community and your country, and thus bring success and happiness to yourself.

—MR. WILFRED MCGIMPSEY,
Assistant Principal

Miss Jane Lewis, Co-ordinator

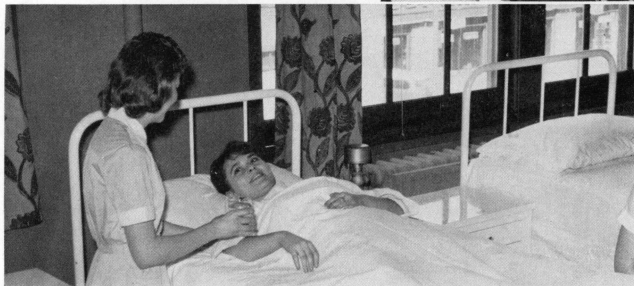

MISS JANE LEWIS is co-ordinator for Practical Nursing, Pre-Nursing, and Hotel and Restaurant Training. Her duties include co-ordination and job placement for young people in these trades.

In a Pre-Nursing class, Marlene Thureson (left) shows Miss Gladyce Budd, instructor, that she has learned the bones of the skeleton.

Pre-Nursing

The PRE-NURSING DEPARTMENT has several objectives: to give a good basic high school background for the field of Nursing; to give the students an opportunity to test their manual dexterity through simple nursing care procedures; and to give the students a true picture of the fields of nursing.

Jay Safro, patient, enjoys the ministrations of Patricia Samek in a class in nursing care.

Mrs. Gertrude Sears and Practical Nursing student, Mary Haley, give Marion Kolvig, who is a Pre-Nursing student, a blood pressure test.

Practical Nursing

The PRACTICAL NURSING DEPARTMENT at Vocational High School is made up of post graduates located at Swedish Hospital. Upon completion of the course, the student must take a state examination in order to become a licensed practical nurse.

Restaurant Training

Making pastry to be served at the noon lunches is Gary Martin and his instructor, Mrs. Alice Clark.

In the RESTAURANT TRAINING (left, below) course, students are taught every phase of cooking—weight and measurement, serving, personal appearance—cleanliness, dishwashing, care of equipment, and efficient handling of materials.

Mrs. Dorothy Glenny is supervising Donald Lindner and Dave Larson, who are at work in the Tea Room kitchen.

MISS CAROL HAUGER directs job placement for students in Cosmetology, Needle Arts, Sales and Receptionist Training, and Tailoring.

Under the direction of Mrs. Dorothea Neprude, Joan Sundeen and Betty Peasha try a new hair style.

Miss Charlotte Myers supervises hair setting being done by Cheryl Kucera.

Cosmetology as a Career . . .

Vocational's Cosmetology Department enables a student to become a licensed beautician after the necessary 1500 hours of training have been satisfactorily completed. Those with artistic talent, sales ability, and a genuine desire to succeed should seriously consider this occupation for their life work.

Graduates of Vocational who have specialized in Cosmetology are fully prepared to enter this highly competitive field.

Sharon Nyback and Marie Fahret display Christmas packages produced by the School Store's wrapping service.

Terry Plue discusses counter display with Miss Josephine Leachman, Store director.

... where earnest young people ...

Sellers and Producers

Students in SALES AND RECEPTIONIST TRAINING get on-the-job training in Vocational's School Store.

In the TAILORING DEPARTMENT students are taught the professional ways of tailoring and manufacturing clothing.

Upon satisfactory completion of the NEEDLE ARTS COURSE, students will have developed skills which include hand and machine sewing, tailoring, and power machine operation.

Mr. Edward Karbo checks as Sandra Guzek hems Myrna Graham's coat.

Connie Carlson and Judy Johnson finish a product for the School Store under the direction of Mrs. Marguerite Belton.

... by training themselves ...

Mr. Royalston F. Jennings, Co-ordinator

MR. ROYALSTON F. JENNINGS is co-ordinator for Auto Mechanics, Aviation Mechanics, Machine Drafting, Sheet Metal, Machine Shop, and Welding.

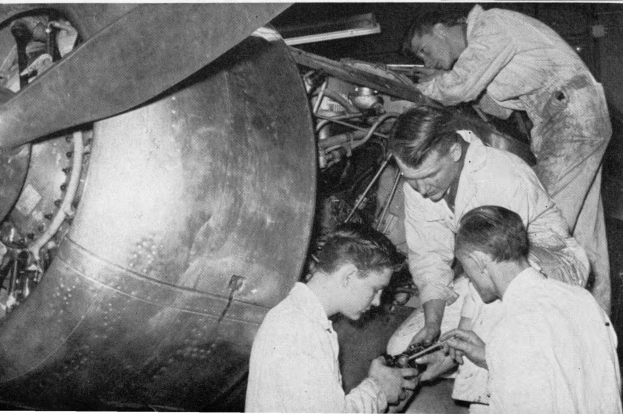

Two Popular Courses

The AUTO MECHANICS COURSE includes the servicing of tires, brakes, cooling systems, batteries, and carburetors.

In AVIATION MECHANICS students work on units for both small and large aircraft. School equipment includes two flyable airplanes.

Joseph Torres and Mr. Feraz Meyer check a motor with an oscilloscope.

... are being trained ...

Mr. Garfield Schow studies Thomas Hannon's drafting plans.

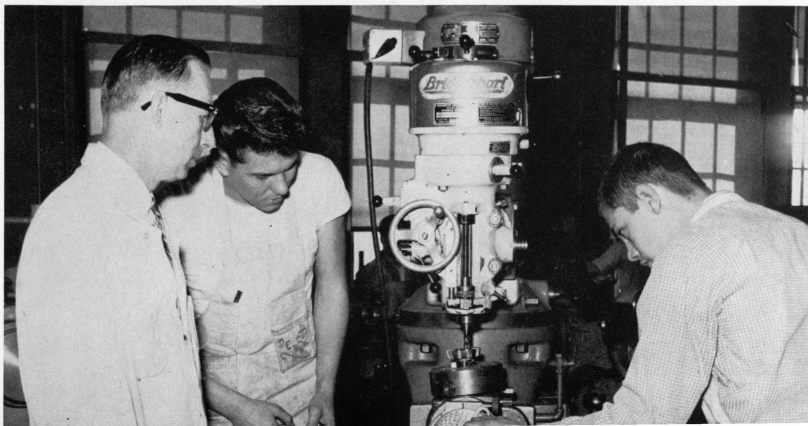

PLANNERS

The MACHINE DRAFTING course (left) is geared to cover as many phases of the trade as possible. The starting point is orthographic drawing, which is followed by the study of sections and auxiliary views. Later the students advance and are given existing machine parts to draw. Complete sets of drawings are made, including dimensioned shop drawings and assembly drawings. This course is a good preparation for employment in engineering departments in manufacturing plants.

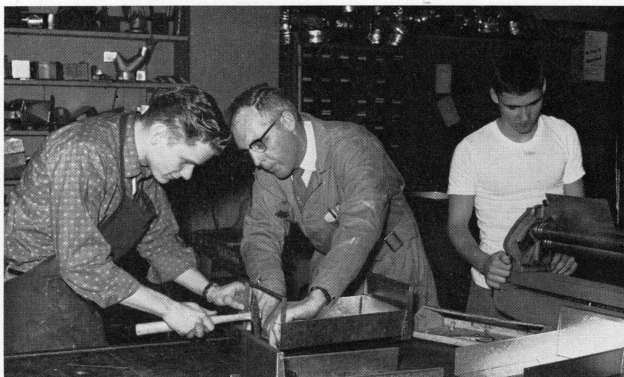

PRODUCERS

In VOCATIONAL'S MACHINE SHOP (below) students are taught the use of hand tools and the operation of automatic and semi-automatic power tools. They gain the knowledge and training necessary to make highly accurate parts for a wide variety of manufactured products such as refrigerators, tractors, aircraft, etc. This shop also gives individuals a good background for the tool and die making trade, which is one of the most highly skilled of all crafts.

Mr. Gene Sanford and Dennis Huneberg watch as Ed Rymer works on the Bridgeport Milling machine.

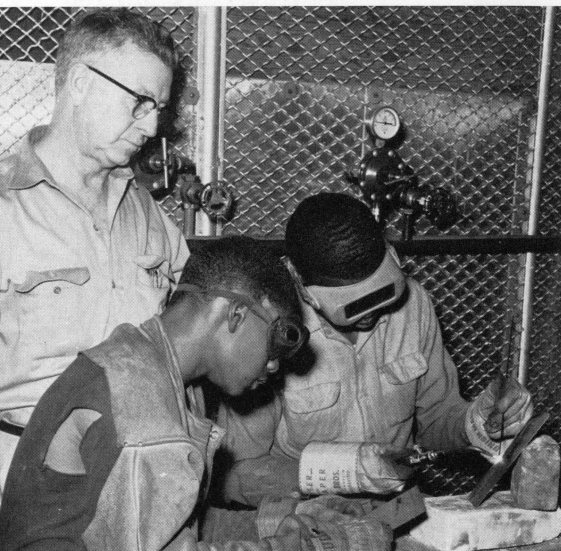

... to fill a definite place ...

Using the tools of their trade are John Dorsher, Mr. Louis Prekker, and Jim Jallonski.

Students in Vocational's SHEET METAL course are trained in the manufacturing of sheet metal products and in building construction. They learn the estimating and building of such sheet metal units as air conditioning parts, downspouts, and copper canopies. Employment is open to those who finish the course and are also able to master the mathematics necessary to solve the more complex sheet metal problems.

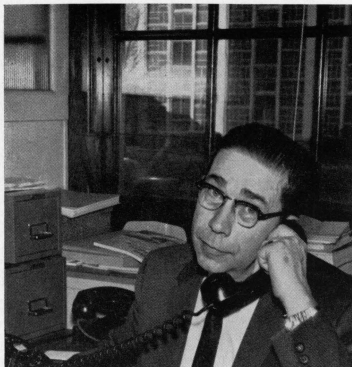

Industrial Needs

The WELDING TRADE is a rapidly expanding one. The course at Vocational includes the three most popular processes: gas welding, oxygen and electric arc cutting, and manually operated electric arc welding. Related technical information and the care and maintenance of welding equipment are part of the course. Students may become certified welders before graduation by taking welding tests given at school.

Welding a vertical butt-weld with an acetylene torch are Bill Ibarren and John Culliver. Mr. Thomas Piper looks on.

Mr. Reuben J. Schafer, Co-ordinator for Barbering, Cabinet Making, Electricity, Pattern Making, Radio and TV, and Shoe Repairing.

Mr. John Peyla watches as Jesse Davis and Jon Johnson industriously work on their projects.

Barbering

VOCATIONAL'S BARBERING SCHOOL is a 1200 hour-9 month course approved by the Minnesota State Barber Board. The instructor is a Registered Barber Instructor and also holds a current Barber School Permit. Upon completion of this course the student is eligible to take the State examination for an Apprentice Barber License.

Cabinet Making

CABINET MAKING is an advanced course in wood-working. Students are taught the use of hand tools and power machines, as well as the related science, mathematics, drawing, and technical information essential to the trade. This course has been developed to give the student the fundamentals needed for employment in the cabinet making trade.

"Whether you are to be busy . . .

Electricity

Electrical work is found in many fields — construction, electronics, motor repair, maintenance, appliance repair, testing, and manufacturing. The ELECTRICITY DEPARTMENT at Vocational offers basic training and practical work in these areas. Students receive a sound foundation in theory and practice in preparation for entering apprenticeship. Construction wiring, motors, controls, electronics, and basic theory are included in this course.

Bob Swantek is doing benchwork in the construction of his pattern as Mr. Robert Larson supervises.

Mr. William Hiltner directs Stanley Iskierka in wiring and electronics.

Pattern Making

The PATTERNMAKING TRADE is a highly skilled occupation and demands that its craftsmen be experts in the use and care of all woodworking hand and machine tools. Patterns are the necessary models used in the production of most metal objects that are to be made of cast metals. Patternmakers must thoroughly understand machine drafting, blue print reading, geometric layout, and foundry molding processes, as well as possess complete knowledge of the equipment, materials, and methods of the trade.

... in job or hobby ...

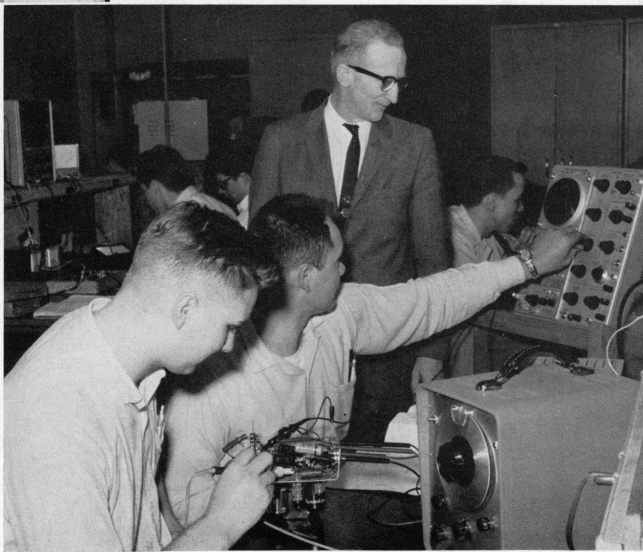

Rod Basham and Ron Schwerman work on electronic equipment. Mr. Vernon Swenson teaches this course.

Expanding Field in Electronics

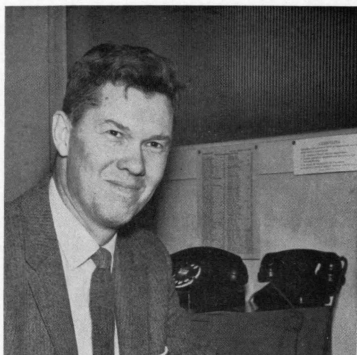

Vocational has an industry-approved RADIO-TELEVISION course. Instruction covers basic areas in electricity, shop practices, radio, electronics, advanced radio theory, and servicing, television theory, and servicing of plain and colored televisions. This background provides a firm basis for employment in any field of electronics.

Mr. Rodney Van Sickle directs Jack Funk and Melvin Wolter in designing the calibration of a power amplifier.

Vocational boasts an 18-month ELECTRONICS COURSE designed to prepare workers for the electronics industry. It is not, however, intended to prepare radio and television servicemen. Some of the areas of electronics covered by this course are industrial controls, synchros and servo-mechanisms, computers, radar, and telemetering.

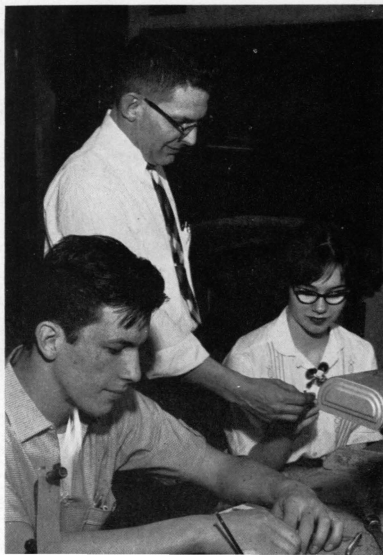

... bring to that occupation ...

Mr. Kenneth L. Thompson, Co-ordinator for Commercial Art; Metal Art; Architectural Drafting; Printing, and Upholstering.

Paris Olivera is designing a ring and Pat Regentz is working on a pin while Mr. Reed looks on.

Imagination is needed

Students in the COMMERCIAL ART course work with line, shape, form, color, and texture.

The student is taught the fundamental principles of photography, advertising design, industrial design, illustration design, and fashion design and illustration.

The course is planned to develop the ability to think inventively; to acquire the major skills and techniques which artists use; and to attain an understanding of art from the past to the present day.

Admiring a display made by one of the Commercial Art students are Miss Irene Roskilly, Marilyn Plaza, and Vicky Pedersen.

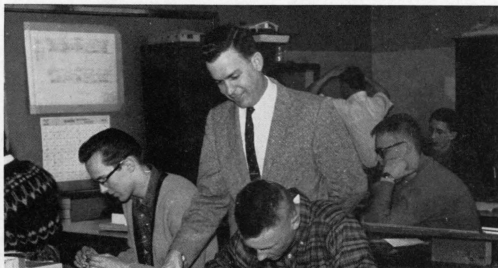

Skill is needed

METAL ARTS is a specialized field dealing with jewelry and silversmithing.

Some of the techniques learned in this course are soldering, sawing, filing, centrifugal casting, enameling, stone cutting and polishing, chasing, stone setting, and electroplating.

The student is also given basic understanding and background in design.

... the true craftsman spirit ...

Mr. Joe Budish (standing) seems pleased about drawing board plans of (from left) Don Eyich, Ron Butterfield and James Lukach.

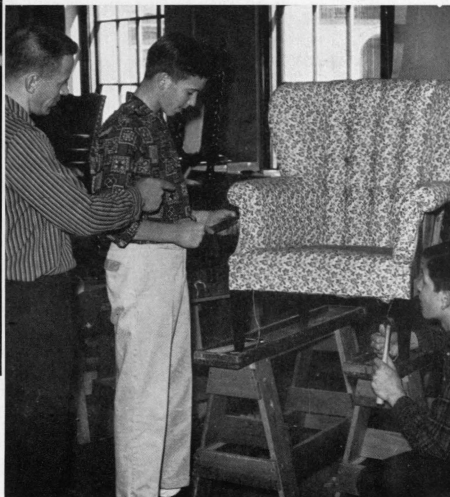

Patience is needed

ARCHITECTURAL DRAFTING is the designing and drawing of plans for buildings. Students learn how to use the tools necessary in drawing such plans. Various building materials and methods of construction are studied and used . . . PRINTING consists of bookbinding, letterpress work, offset printing and job shop printing . . . Students in UPHOLSTERY are trained in the uses of tools and equipment while upholstering furniture. A thorough knowledge of fabrics and supplies develops skill and creative ability.

Mr. Frederick Rodde (left) supervises the work of George Lanhart and Clifford Abbott.

Mr. Robert Hanson stands by as William Sates takes finished copies out of the machine. The school newspaper, The CRAFTSMAN, is published in Mr. Hanson's classes.

Business Education

Business Education

A course in OFFICE TRAINING (right) enables intelligent and efficient students a chance to choose from many interesting jobs that are available to well-trained graduates. Students are taught both manual and electric typewriting, and operation of the dictaphone, mimeograph and ditto machines.

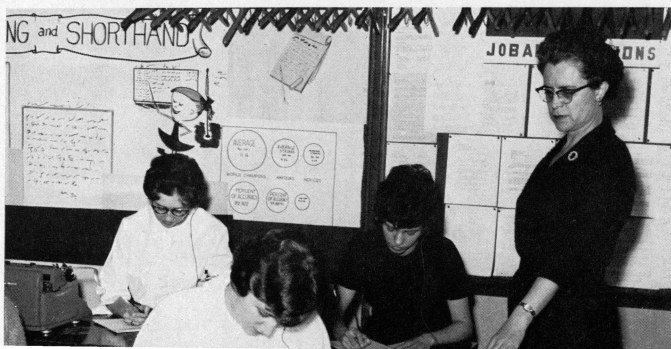

In the STENOGRAPHIC DEPARTMENT (below) students learn Gregg shorthand and transcription, plus related subjects. Efficiency and intelligence, plus above-average achievement in English, are the main requirements.

Many interesting job opportunities are available for students who are ready to meet the challenge.

Running the duplicating machine are Miss Dean Kean and Jo Ann Jehoich.

Miss Helen Robertson is running the tape recorder as Rose Mary Kmetz, Sharon Grisim, and Jeannie Lindenberg take dictation.

Kathy Bishop, (front) Jean Langnickel, and Mrs. Lucille Willen (standing).

Comptometry

MRS. LUCILLE WILLEN (left) is giving instructions on the use of the comptometer. This machine adds, subtracts, multiplies, and divides.

A skilled comptometer must have rapid and accurate finger dexterity. The student must also be able to work well with figures so as to understand the reasons for his calculations.

Bookkeeping

Mrs. Eleanor Huso's second period class is hard at work learning the fundamental steps in bookkeeping.

At the end of the one-year course, students will have a basic foundation on which to build and apply their skills in keeping the records and books of a store or company.

Printing Services

The Vocational Print Shop is a very busy place always, partly because most of the Board of Education printing orders are done here. This kind of printing experience helps prepare our students for jobs in the printing industry of Minneapolis. Mr. Harold Tietz is Supervisor of the Print Shop.

Mr. Arthur Lindman, teacher of Modern Problems and adviser of Student Council.

MRS. GERTRUDE HEADRICK became a familiar figure at Vocational, especially to Seniors, because she taught Mr. Lindman's Modern Problems classes during his long absence in the early part of the school year. Everybody survived — especially Mr. Lindman, who looked very healthy upon his return.

A New Art

Mr. Piper's creations — "folk art", he calls them — were on display at the Auto Show this year, as well as in our first floor lobby. Using various metals and welding equipment, he formed different designs in dull or polished gold, copper, aluminum, or steel. From now on, perhaps we can speak of the art of welding.

Farewell

At the end of the first semester, Mr. Earl Weisner, of the Shoemaking Department, and Mrs. Marion Kelley, School Librarian, announced their plan to leave us. With a last cup of coffee, speeches, and gifts, they left — the Kelleys for Florida, the Weisners to concentrate full-time on his shoe business near Southdale.

Mr. John Peyla tickles the keys; Mr. Robert Hanson listens for the right spot to boom the drum and crash the cymbals, as Mr. Henry Arent, oblivious of both his friends, does a tap dance while beating the bull fiddle.

Relaxing Moments

Sandwiched in here and there between the busy routine were a few social occasions which lightened the faculty year. We know we haven't caught all these occasions with our camera, any more than we "caught" all of the outside interests or hobbies that make our teachers interesting as people; but we hope we have revealed a little bit of their lighter side.

Miss Dagny Dietrichson pours for Mr. Joe Budish; a student, Tony Stauffacher, replenishes the cups while Mr. Jules Reed awaits his turn; looking lovely above the flowers is Mrs. Martha Trudell, followed by a pair of parents and Mr. Vernon Swenson, patiently waiting at the end of the line. Mrs. Marian Kelley, Vocational librarian for thirty-two years.

Our Librarian Leaves

Mrs. Marian Kelley, although naturally a lover of books, was no book worm holed up in her own private little nook. Hers was a career of service, wisely and practically rendered, and peppered generously with down-to-earth humor; and it was largely because of these qualities, perhaps, that even those with different opinions respected and honored her for hers.

A former president of the Minneapolis division of the Minnesota Education Association, a life member of NEA and of numerous civic and educational committees, Mrs. Kelley will also be remembered at Vocational for her work as chairman of the auditorium committee which worked for ten years and finally convinced the City Council that Vocational really needed our auditorium.

We hope that some of Mrs. Kelley's spirit of always working for something better will inspire us, too, to contribute to Vocational's continued progress.

Mid-year began a new era in our library-

New Head Librarian

Mrs. Martha Lund, with old friends.

MRS. EVELYN LUNDBLAD hails from Edison. Familiarizing herself with our library's extensive collection of trade books and periodicals was one of her first objectives in getting acquainted.

... these have left us—

Special Mention

Mr. Hendrickson, Mr. Kaercher, and Mr. Nelson were Old Stalwarts here, and together served Voc for a grand total of 124 years. Tall Mr. H with his booming voice; bow-tied Mr. K with his supplies of pop corn for homeroom parties; and cheery Mr. N, the only man in the Business Dept., (and a bee-keeper and Eskimo pie-eater at that), are all missed here, but no doubt enjoying retirement to the full. Mr. Aasen is attending the U. of Missouri. Miss Wood transferred to Central High, and Mr. Weisner is now spending full time at his own shoe business.

Mr. Julius Aasen, Commercial Art; Mr. Paul Hendrickson, Mathematics; Mr. George Kaercher, Sheet Metal; Mr. Carl Nelson, Business Machines; Mr. Earl Weisner, Shoe Repair; Miss Irene Wood, Math, English 10.

In Memoriam—Miss Margaret Carleton

The greatest part of a school's character is based on the dedication of its teachers and on the ideals of education that they have. Miss Carleton, with her love of students and of learning, gave 25 years of her finest work and thought to our school.

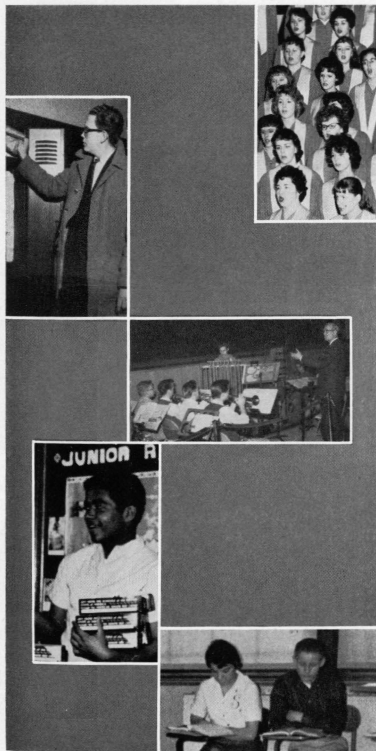

We publish here part of a letter Mrs. Mabel Turkington wrote to the Minneapolis Tribune on February 20, 1961:

"Margaret Carleton was not only an excellent teacher, she was a lovely person. The greatest quality she possessed was her warm kindness, often overlooked in a teacher's qualifications. In all her years of teaching I don't believe she ever did an unkind deed or spoke an unkind word. This kindness shone in her warm brown eyes and her beautiful face. . . . All of us whose lives she touched are better people today because of this association with Margaret Carleton."

Miss Margaret Carleton, Teacher of Mathematics and Handwriting until her retirement in 1957.

Underclassmen

What a year it was for the Sophomores! Leaving the home neighborhood, getting acquainted with a big new school and with fellow students from other neighborhoods — it was something like a melting-pot experience, but unlike the melting-pot product they didn't lose their identity: they organized themselves as a class; and as individuals, most of them kept their eyes on their goal of preparing themselves for a useful future. . . . And Juniors, a step farther along the path, were growing into the idea that trained hands need educated minds, and that their academic classes supplied this greater dimension to their vocational training. And, of course, there was always that immediate goal for Juniors to look forward to the wonderful privilege of being Seniors!

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS—Sharon Stimpson, President; Mary Lou Preese, Vice President; Sandy Lund, Secretary-Treasurer.

Guidance and Supervision—for the junior class was provided by Mrs. Elsie Kwakkernaat and Mr. James Salwasser.

JUNIOR STUDENT COUNCIL MEMBERS work in co-operation with the Sophomore and Senior Council Members to improve our school and its activities in every way possible.

JUNIOR OFFICERS along with a representative from each homeroom plan the junior activities, such as the Sweetheart Dance. They also decide on the style of class ring for their fellow students. In order to be eligible for this representation, each student must have a "B" or better average.

Juniors' Sweetheart Dance

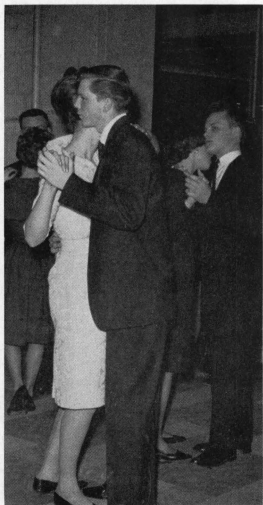

Minneapolis, long unjustly famous for its wintry blasts, produced a lovely February thaw, and at the same time, the juniors produced a plan to honor their old friend, St. Valentine, at a Sweetheart Dance.

Of course, a celebration of this nature demands royalty which can properly represent sweethearts. Accordingly, having held secret elections previously, the King and Queen of this affair were duly revealed and crowned at the climax of the evening. They are pictured below at the moment of their crowning.

Mr. James Salwasser, one of the junior class advisers, conducted the evening's fun.

Organizations

and Activities

Most of us wouldn't enjoy the life of a hermit, because we've found that working together for a common goal is fun, and very often inspiring. . . . Those of us who played in the band this year could find real satisfaction in knowing that we "sounded better than ever", and that our efforts added life to school programs. And certainly if we sang in the choir or attended the symphony concerts, we were aware that another dimension of beauty had been added to our lives. . . . All of us who had any part in stage productions — actors, stage crew, directors, seamstresses, ushers, printers, to name a few — shared in the griefs as well as the fun of working together. "Room Service" was fun. "Anne Frank" was an emotional experience we won't forget. . . . So whether we worked on publications staffs, or P.T.S.A., or turned cartwheels cheerleading, or showed visitors around the building, or — so many things! — we found that we had been building friendships and loyalties which gave meaning and direction to our life at school.

Special Mention

In gratitude for his conscientious work and devotion to duty, Mel Anderson was presented a gift by Joyce Morris acting in behalf of the Student Council.

As Master of Ceremonies for several parties, Mel played an active and often difficult part in school life. Mel attended many sessions of the All-City Student Council; he also spent a week at the National Student Council Convention in Janesville, Wisconsin, in June of 1960.

Student Council

This arm of student government raised money for worthy projects by sponsoring two dances, an ice skating party, and a shoe shine. With the money raised they bought a camera with an electronic flash gun for the 1962 TRADEWINDS. They bought two $50 watches for a senior girl and a senior boy who showed most significant progress in their trade. The lunchroom-recreation period was enlivened by current records purchased by the Student Council. This year, for the first time, the Council awarded pins to its own members who had shown special merit as Council members.

National Honor Society

Vocational High School's chapter of the National Honor Society was formed in 1956.

Membership, which cannot exceed ten per cent of the 12A class, is based on scholarship, leadership, character, and service. Students must have a "B" or better average and show outstanding ability in their trades.

New junior and senior members are admitted in the spring of each school year.

P.T.S.A. Leads the Way

A revitalized P.T.S.A., under the energetic leadership of Mrs. Leonard Grates, began to make headway in 1961 as parents cooperated in many projects. They gave a lift to Vocational's Child Welfare Program by selling light bulbs and donating clothing at an April Fool Fun-night; they served as hosts and hostesses in teachers' rooms for the popular Open House program in mid-April; and they donated prizes to students at different parties.

Besides the officers pictured below, others serving the organization were Mrs. Otto Hanson, Vice President; Mr. Donald L. Brown, Treasurer; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Haga, Membership and Publicity; Mrs. Jessie Busham, Historian; Mr. and Mrs. John Baker, Ways and Means; Mrs. Alice McLaughlin, Hospitality; Mrs. Eleanor Tuveson, Welfare Chairman; and Mrs. Margaret Lundberg, Refreshments Chairman.

Service Club

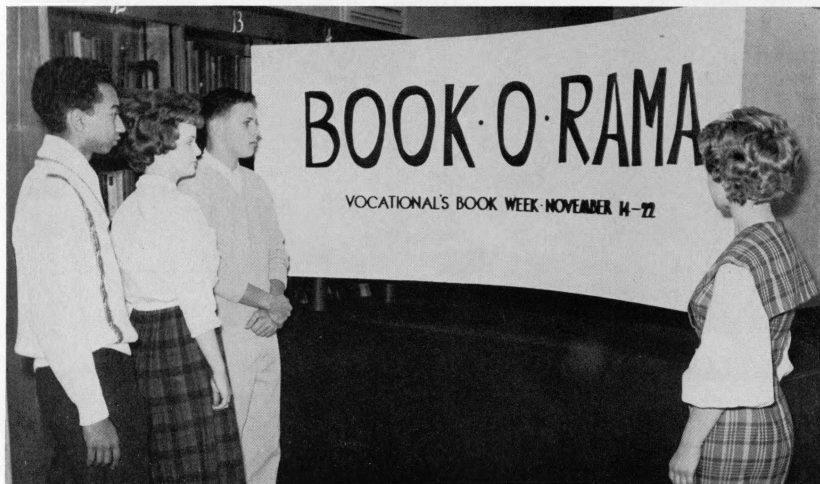

When there is a call for "Service" at Vocational everyone can always depend on the members of the Service Club to be ready, willing, and able. Under the direction of Mr. Albert Oster, the service club provides ushers for plays produced in the auditorium, guides for groups touring Vocational, and hostesses for "Open House." Oftentimes "emergency" service is needed — unexpected visitors, for instance — and Service Club members are always ready.

The approximately sixty members of the Service Club from the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior Classes enjoy being of service to Vocational because they have found that there is a real joy in working together for the common good of the school.

Book Week . . .

Book Week at Vocational finds crowds of students at the library doors when newly purchased books go out on loan for the first time.

All of the 400 books bought this year were displayed for browsing English class students. Walking among the attractive displays, they busily wrote titles and authors of the new books which they could borrow only on a first-come, first-served basis as soon as Book Week ended.

Mr. Gale Greenwood, Commercial Art teacher, and his eleventh grade art students designed and executed the displays, which were planned by the librarians Mrs. Kelley and Mrs. Lund.

Concerts and Cameras have their devotees—

Young People's Concerts

Three times this year students of Vocational had the opportunity to attend the Young People's Concerts at Northrop Auditorium. Many students each year are introduced to fine music in this way. This year, students heard the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra under the direction of its new conductor, Stanislaw Skrowaczewski.

Camera Club

In room 300 once a week the Camera Club met for laboratory conferences with Mr. John Oster, adviser, who taught members how to use cameras and to make prints. The club itself is mostly a hobby but it also enables the student to learn the beginning fundamentals of photography.

Newspaper News

Even though the Kennedy-Nixon stares were given equal space on her bulletin board, there is no equivocating, no stalling, no fence-straddling for the forthright young lady who this year became the new adviser for our school newspaper. The Mort Sahl-New Yorker afterthoughts reveal a further facet of her personality — a breezy brand of humor which seemed to spread itself often on the faces of her staff, who obviously enjoyed working with her.

Under Miss McDonald's direction, the paper changed size and shape this year, and most students seemed to appreciate the switch to tabloid format. Formerly the paper had been printed in letter press, but with Mr. Robert Hanson as printing adviser and teacher, the paper was printed in offset by Mr. Hanson's classes in photo-offset printing.

The Craftsman

The Craftsman staff, directed by Miss Patricia McDonald, produced many interesting papers this year.

The rest of the Staff, including PAT BARTLETT and SANDRA BOLDUC, served as reporters, copyreaders and proofreaders.

Printing Adviser

Mr. Robert Hansen, teacher of Offset Printing, directed offset printing for the CRAFTSMAN this year. A tabloid format was used, and photo offset students gained valuable experience in this type of newspaper production.

WORKING on the yearbook staff . . .

. . . was a completely new experience for all of us. Most of us had never imagined how a picture is transmitted from the camera to the printed page. None of us had ever paid much attention to last names, — especially those with unreasonable spellings — and some of us had never gone beyond the “Hey-you” stage for first names; when we discovered that there is an enormous amount of leg-work and paper work in merely collecting names and attaching them to the right faces, and that this job was just one of the minor tasks facing us, we almost asked for a transfer to a “regular” English class.

But as the year progressed, so did we, with plenty of mistakes and frustrations to our credit: we learned to admire those boys on LIFE magazine. Note to next year's staff: meet your deadlines, or you'll be sorry.

Tradewind in Action

Production responsibilities were shared by two staffs — Layout and Copy jobs were shared by an art and an editorial staff member for each section of the yearbook, as follows:

Administration — Jeff Blake and Carol Roo
Underclass — George Kuharski and Frank Gross
Sports — Jim Jackman and Erling Rood
Organizations and Activities — Rae Marie Walz, George Kuharski, and Kathy Zondlo
School Life — Mona Albertson, Sandra Mohart, and Carol Atkinson
Seniors — Susanne Quan, Helen Ralston, and Darlene Sarenpa
General Editor — Carol Roo

Art Editor — Jim Jackman
Copy Editors — Darlene Sarenpa and Kathy Zondlo
Cover Design — George Kuharski
Copy Listing Editors — Rae Marie Walz and Erling Rood
Division Page Designs — Jim Jackman
Senior Distribution — Erling Rood

Although each staff member was assigned these definite responsibilities, each one learned the necessity of co-operating with another staff member, since each section had both its busy and its slack seasons, and the book could not be produced unless each one was willing to work outside of his own assigned area.

Collecting Subscriptions and Taking Photographs . . .

— are two kinds of student activities which supplement the work of Tradewind production.

Mrs. Margaret Orrock directed the work of her bookkeeping class in collecting Sophomore and Junior subscription money and keeping books of the Tradewind. Later on in the year these students distributed the annual to underclassmen. (Senior subscriptions are handled through the Senior Class Treasurer, Darrel Kluck, and distribution to Seniors is directed by Mrs. Byrne with the aid of Mrs. Lemke, Senior Class Adviser.)

Although they were not on the production staff of Tradewind, Dally, Olberg, and Braun, Inc., spent a lot of time taking pictures and developing them after school.

Mr. Robert Turner Directs—

The Diary of Anne Frank

As the curtain rises on the play The Diary of Anne Frank the audience is immediately aware that something incredible has happened in this attic scene. Mr. Otto Frank, a bitter man, enters hesitantly, looks around the room of disorder and disarray, then breaks down completely at the sight of a diary left in a heap of rubbish — the diary of his daughter, Anne.

Through a series of flashbacks to 1942 we are given a vivid picture of the eight Jews confined in this warehouse attic in Amsterdam, because Anne gaily kept the homely details in her diary. We know of the sacrifices made by a few friends on the outside to protect and provide for these fugitives from the Nazi Gestapo. For two years and one month we live with their temperaments and changing moods.

The Gestapo, breaking through the locked door, ends the play. But we are allowed one last glimpse of Mr. Frank as he narrates the grisly operation of his search for Anne through the concentration camps of Europe after the war. Her death embitters the old man to the point where he is ashamed as we hear Anne's last words, "In spite of everything, I still believe that people are really good at heart."

Room Service

It is difficult enough to produce a play, but when the "annoyances" include — a New York hotel suite, unpaid for; seventeen rooms and three meals a day for seventeen actors, unpaid; a playwright, unpaid; a frustrated hotel manager — brother-in-law of the producer, unpaid; a dictatorial representative of the hotel owner; twenty unemployed chorus girls; two "locked-out" assistants; a moldy "unhockable" Deerhead; and no "Room Service," one has the makings for a broad farce comedy . . . and an enjoyable evening.

Plying all tricks of the trade, the producer succeeds, the boy gets the girl, the manager is promoted, and "Room Service" joins the ranks of successful productions.

His secretary tries to cheer him up by having an elf build a large T.V. so he can see that people still have the Christmas spirit in their hearts, but Santa only becomes more unhappy as he sees the jostling, commercialized crowds on Nicollet Avenue. Later, he decides people really need Christmas anyway, and he agrees to take his sleigh and go again on his time-honored rounds of cheer.

Stage Crew Magicians

The handy men (and women!) of the school are usually to be found on the Stage-Crew. They might be called Jacks-of-all-Trades, because they have to create and manipulate the atmosphere needed for all the plays and programs which appear so magically behind the stage curtain. Many hours before and after school are spent pounding and hacking and painting scenery, and operating the lights and sounds from a complicated switchboard.

The set for Anne Frank this year (see p. 77), with its various levels, was built to the original specifications of the New York play and intensified interest in the play itself.

Vocational Band

This year the band got off to a flying start with the Football Preview on the third day of school. At the Preview our band joined bands from all the other high schools in the city to form a mass band.

The first couple of days were a little confusing, especially to the new members, but it didn't take long for everyone to get into the swing of things.

The band also participated in many other school activities. On Vocational's night at the basketball games our band provided entertainment during all five games. At the pep fests, music was provided by the band and added greatly to the spirit of the occasions. In May the band had its own program when it presented old and new music, in contrasting forms.

Under the direction of Mr. Henry Arent, our band worked diligently to raise the school spirit whenever possible.

Sports

So many times, being human, we feel like giving up. The odds are against us, we say, or today isn't our day — let's wait for a more convenient time; or we haven't had enough time for practice; or the other guy's equipment is better and we've had injuries; or "I've got a job — no time for sports" — ad infinitum. . . . But the fellow who doggedly runs around the only "track" we have at Vocational — the corridors on fourth floor — and the men who toil and scuffle in the mud of the football field, and all the other sportsmen who run and jump and dribble and splash and wrestle and worry and sweat, have long ago learned to quit making excuses. They do their best and enjoy the doing; and if they have an appreciative audience, led by enthusiastic Cheerleaders, they enjoy that, too. . . . The point is—this is where we separate "the men from the boys": whether on the job, in the home, at school, or in the community — have we learned to do our best without making useless excuses, and, most important, have we learned to enjoy the doing?

Summary

At the beginning of the season Mr. Cady said, "the Volts want to win," and the Volts did want to win.

After two defeats the team sprang back and won over Edison 7 to 6 for the Volts' first win since 1957.

Under the leadership of co-captains GAY NOVACK and BOB GROSS the Volts were led to a 1 win and 6 loss record of the season.

Sophomore Football

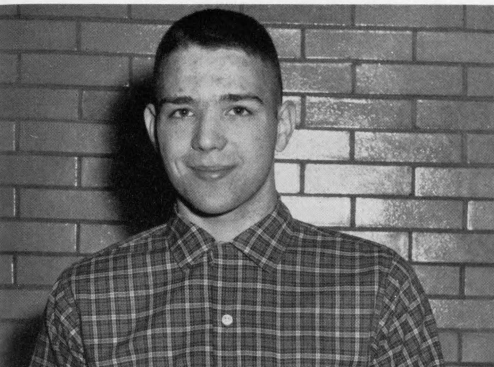

Although the Sophomore football team lost all four of its games, their efforts were not in vain.

In playing this year for the first time on a high school team, they might have thought they didn't have what it takes to play football; however, these boys learned that it takes teamwork and practice to win. Knowing this, many of these boys will be good prospects for next year's varsity team.

Swimming

The swimming team was not very successful this year but they did give us plenty of excitement. Losing is not as bad as some people make it look. We think it's the better team that can lose a game without losing their heads. Vocational did win one of the nine meets, however, and has a few boys that will look good next year. Louis Vann will be the captain, with Don King and Louis Pointer expected to lead the team to victory. The best all-around swimmers this year were Dick Heger (Free Style) and Jerry Woodruff (Diving).

The girls have it . . .

Girl's Golf

Some people think of golf as a lazy sport. Some don't even consider it a sport. We're proud of our team. These girls have to work hard just to get on the team. After constant practice the girls are looking forward to a very successful season.

Cheerleaders

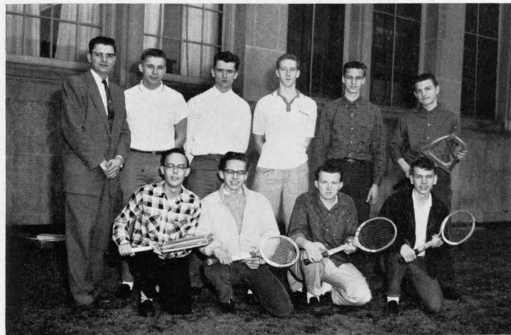

We were awfully proud of our cheerleaders this year. They spurred our teams on and made our auditorium programs a little livelier. Some cheering techniques look so easy, but it takes quite a bit of effort to do it right.

CHEERLEADERS, Bottom Row: Shirley Lewandowski, Elaine Harvet. Second Row: Sharon Stimpson, Margaret Contreas (sub.), Kathy Nesheim. Top Row: Donna Ammerman (sub.), Carol Roo, Mary Koolstra, Mary Ingle.

New season, new interests—

Spring Sports take limelight as we go to press—

Tennis

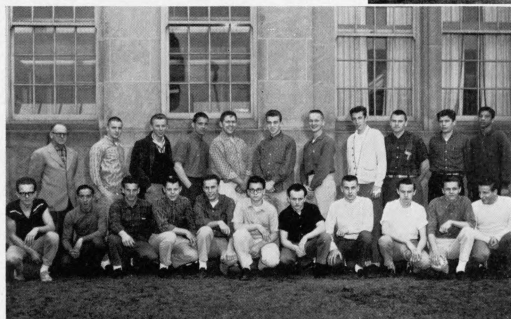

Front Row: Lee Braun, John Cox, Robert Hanson, Bob Overcott. Top Row: Mr. Chambers, Bob Hoffman, Douglas Sokolowski, Dennis Uglum, Ted Moser, Ron Veilleux.

The tennis team has high hopes this year. They have new uniforms and new sweat clothes. They have been practicing in the girls' gym and will move to Bryn Mawr as soon as the weather allows. Lee Braun, Warren Dally, and Ron Belcars are all returning from last year and are all anticipating a good season.

Golf

Left to Right: Mr. Budish, Bill Warren, Howie Blanchar, Melvin Anderson, Louis Vann, Ken Kolvig, Dwaine Greenwalt, Dale Greene.

The golf team has been practicing since Christmas vacation and the boys are really eager for a successful season. Returning from last year are Ron Butterfield, Howie Blanchar, and Dwaine Greenwalt.

Track

DON KING and ROGER SABOL will compete in the mile run, DENNIS BROWN and LARRY FOREHAND will go out for the 880 yard run, and our pole vaulters, DAVE SMITH and JOHN ZETTERVALL, will round off the season for the track team.

Baseball

Front Row: Bob Villebrun, Chuck LaMere, Gay Novack, Ron Urness, Al Quick, Mike Hedemark, Joe Durushia, Willie Iskerka, Pete Schawig, Dick Zelenak, Chuck Peasha. Top Row: Mr. Fiedler, Jerry Woodruff, Woody Nelson, Bob Gross, Chuck Berger, Steve McMillan, Ronnie Anderson, Russell Fairbanks, Victor Vitullo, James Kapala, Raymond Harris.

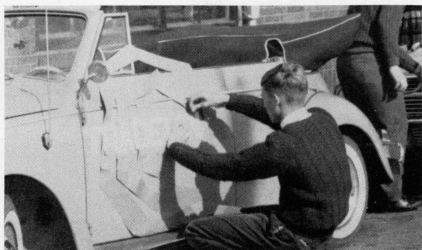

The Baseball team has been practicing for some time now and they'll be ready as soon as the weather clears. Some of the boys returning from last year are Bob Gross, Gay Novack and Chuck Peasha. The first game is with Henry and our boys are like tigers — they just can't wait until the season opens.

School Life

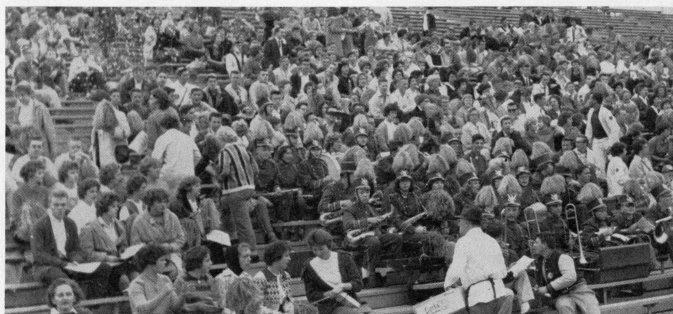

All of the time one spends within these school walls is "School Life", of course, but we're thinking of a certain quality which sets this section of our book a little apart from the others: it's a quality of relaxation, of having fun, of just enjoying our life here. . . . Everyone has his own pattern of enjoyment — a few love to organize parties, or take the lead in a play, or come out first with a new fad or fashion; and there are many more who like to just come to the parties, or see the plays, or follow the fashions. The point is that whether leader or follower, we can play our own part in such a way that others enjoy being with us — we can learn to give as well as take; to discharge as well as accept responsibilities. And in no other place in school is the old adage so obvious — that we get out of school life just what we put into it.

... the Homecoming spirit.

"I crown thee King Bob . . ."

"I crown thee Queen Mary . . ."

Ripples of excitement filled the halls on Homecoming Day. The ripples turned to waves as many lucky car owners were excused to decorate their autos. "Yeah, Volts!" "Sanforize the 'Tigers!" and similar bold slogans blazed from cars loaded with purple and gold streamers.

Classes eventually adjourned to the auditorium where the big event of the day was the crowning of the king and queen by Miss Flame and Chief Ray Malmquist of the Minneapolis Fire Department. The Junior Aquatennial Queen and Junior Commodore carried the fateful scrolls on which the successful candidates' names were written. A soft roll of drums throbbed on the air as Miss Flame walked back and forth in front of the king candidates. Suddenly the drums stopped — and so did Miss Flame — in front of Bob Decowski. Suspense climbed even higher, and the silence broke into cheers and staccato drumming when the Chief stopped in front of Mary Koolstra, Homecoming Queen for 1960 and 1961.

The tension leveled off as royalty and attendants held court, and a short, vaudeville-type entertainment was emceed'd by Mr. Barney Gardner, President of Minneapolis' new Theatre-in-the-Round.

South High School was our foe on the football field that afternoon, and confetti and popcorn were tossed high in the air when we made our first touchdown.

At the half, we cheered the royal pair and their long retinue of cars, and later doused our disappointment when the scoreboard showed us a 40-6 game. But we were looking forward to the evening. . . .

Royalty holds court.

Homecoming Dance

As Alumni "Homecomers" increase in number each year, a gaily dressed throng found themselves in the student lunchroom for the 1961 dance, instead of in the gym.

Rod Aaberg and his band, purple and gold streamers, Dianne Vogt and her "Blue Moon", lines of boys trying to get up enough nerve to ask the Queen for a dance, returning alumni wreathed in smiles of recognition — all these things we remember with pleasure.

The year's first great social event was over, but it gave promise of lively days ahead!

History repeats itself: vests were coming back, as Floyd Stabe and Al Fearon (right) demonstrated.

Fads and Fashions

1961 Fashions — and girls — were looking back to the flapper era of the 20's. Skirts were shorter, hair was higher, shoes were more pointed, purses were larger, and the poncho was back in style.

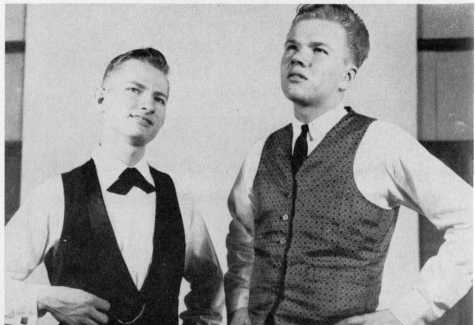

Boys' fashions weren't as extreme, but these fads looked back toward the 20's, too, like the girls'. Varicolored vests and Sherlock Holmes coats brightened the male figure, which also sported a well-tailored look.

Friday!

Friday mornings usually found us enjoying a variety of programs in our beautiful auditorium. Some of the programs presented, besides those pictured, were a Fire Prevention Program; Mr. Jerry Kindall, a baseball player for the Chicago Cubs; and Mr. Richard Thomas, a foreign correspondent, who gave a talk on Russia.

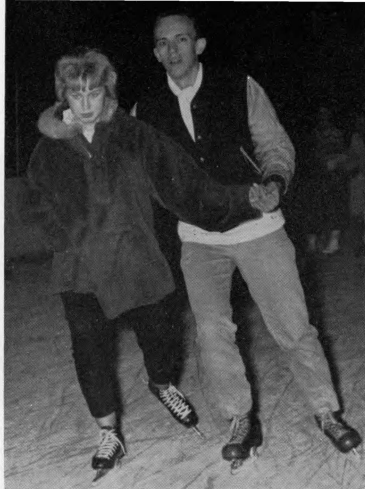

Mr. Frostad's stage crew were always busy on Fridays. And Mr. Booth added his touch on pep-fest days. But Mr. Turner's drama workshop students had the greatest pleasure of all: besides introducing our guests, they announced the well-known words: "Will the Juniors and Sophomores remain seated while the Seniors pass to their classes."

The Navy Band, from the Great Lakes Training Center, put on a colorful program for the student body.

Action at the Arena

A great crowd turned out for the first All-School Skating Party at the Minneapolis Arena in January. Happiness and gaiety throbbed in the atmosphere as everyone skated rhythmically to the booming organ music.

The big event of the evening was the broom hockey game. The seniors pitted their great skill with brooms and a rubber ball against the not-so-great skill of the juniors and sophomores. The brooms flew here and there and some of the players got a few bumps and bruises, none of which were serious. The seniors won the game, but only after a terrible battle with the underclassmen, who seemed properly respectful afterwards.

A Motley Crowd

Amongst the cowboys, vampires, Romans, hillbillies and flappers, you could see an occasional person not dressed in a costume. This was the scene at Vocational's Costume Party Friday, February 17, as everyone was trying to guess who was behind each mask.

Dick Magnuson, emcee for the evening, directed disguised Vocationalites in a couple of rousing games.

At the end of the evening, a lot of happy but tired people found their way to Bridgemen for a Coke before terrorizing pedestrians with their strange costumes on the way home!

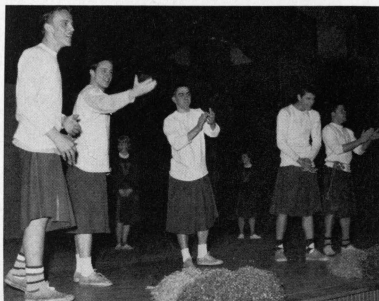

Les Pappas, dressed as Alfalfa, and Shirley Moses, as his girl friend, took time out from "Our Gang" to visit Voc's Costume Party.

Seniors

And then we came to the end of our school years. We shed a few tears at graduation, and some of us even had a fleeting notion that we might like to do it all over again — until we came to our senses and saw the city — and our future — beckoning to us. . . . We think it is an exciting time to be alive. In spite of all the prophets of doom, we are ready to live and work out our faith in the future. . . . Elizabeth M. Fish, the founder of our school, once said, "You students are glad . . . because you were wise enough to know that the only honest way to face the world is with filled and not empty hands; with things done that you can offer . . . And our new President, John F. Kennedy, was speaking of his New Frontier—and where else do we belong, if not at such a Frontier?—when he said, "Don't ask what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country". . . . Thinking of these things, then, we say, "Goodbye, Vocational — you gave us our start." And "Hello, Minneapolis — we have much to offer! We are ready — willing — eager!"

Senior Class Officers

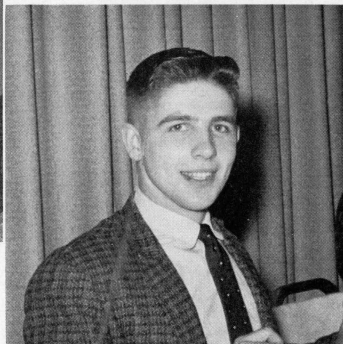

The busiest people in our Senior Class this year were those who had been elected Senior Class Officers. EDWIN MYTTY presided over the Senior meetings. KAREN WENTZEL was always on hand in case of the president's absence. CATHY McLAUGHLIN took notes at all the business meetings. DARREL KLUCK had the not-so-easy job of making sure all the seniors had paid their dues.

... Seniors Organize

Senior Council

Each year a student is selected from each senior home room to serve on the Senior Council. When problems arise — such as what will be the menu for the Senior Banquet, or the theme for the prom, or what kind of announcements will the seniors have this year, and so on — the Senior Council make appropriate decisions based on preferences given each council member by his home room.

This group worked hard so that the seniors would have an enjoyable year and would have something to remember in the years to come.

Mrs. Sarah Jane Lemke, Chairman of the Senior advisers, worked hard to make our senior activities memorable. The corsage was presented to her the night of our Senior Banquet.

Guiding . . .

Our Senior Advisers had the task of directing us towards our one goal — graduation. They gave us encouragement, or an extra push, to keep us from going off the track. They also worked to help make our Senior year an enjoyable one by urging us to participate in all the extra-curricular activities possible. Seniors will look back on this year and be grateful for their interest in us and in our success.

Academic Classes

Voc is known mainly as a trade school but our academic classes are as important to us as they are to the students of any other public high school. To graduate we must be up to par in our academic studies as well as in our specialized trades.

Senior English

Senior English equivalents are offered in addition to "regular" English and cover a large enough field so that almost every senior who can qualify can apply for entrance to the class he prefers. There are three classes for those who enjoy writing. They are Creative Writing, for those who like to use their imagination for writing stories and poems; the Craftsman, our school paper, interesting to any student who has a nose for news;

Mrs. Alice Murray, Jeannine Jurek,

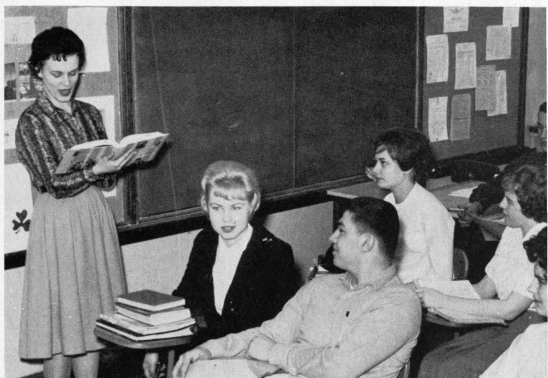

Equivalents

and the Tradewind, our yearbook, which attracts many art students who find a creative way to record school "history". The other equivalent, Drama Workshop, is for those who like to perform for an audience; these students also find opportunity to be in plays and school programs, including the Wednesday morning broadcast. Students not interested in a special English equivalent will automatically be enrolled in basic communications and world literature.

Hopkins High Hosts Seminar

Through our social studies department, four seniors were chosen to attend the Foreign Affairs Seminar at Hopkins High School in March.

Students from most of the schools in this area attended the seminar where America's relationship with Cuba was discussed, both by a speaker and in committee form.

Lee Braun, Lorna Olson, Floyd Stabe, Warren Dally.

Students take a break from the discussions in Hopkins' sunny lunchroom.

SNOW DAY

January 27 actually had a few patches of snow to cover the hills at Columbia Park. We busied ourselves sliding, and then showed our strength in a tug of war, a piggy back race. Then into the chalet for silly fun, some of which shows in these pictures. A crackling fire in the fireplace made a cozy background for crowning our Snow-Day King and Queen, Gay Novack and Pat Griffin.

Do you think we'll make it?

Darrel Kluck, Jerry Belle Isle, Lorna Olson, Cathy McLaughlin.

The big event of the day.

Sitting: Dick Zelanek, Gay Novack, King; Pat Griffin, Queen; Connie Ammerman.

Standing: Bob Decowski, Mary Koolstra, Rick Davis, Jim Williams, Mr. Lindman.

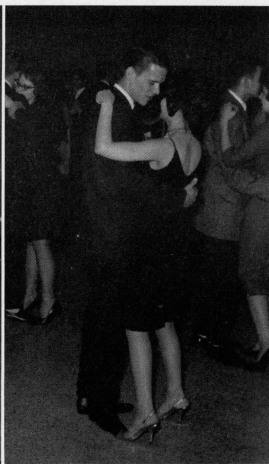

Mr. Norman Jensen, who we've discovered isn't as serious as he looks, acknowledges the greetings of Senior Class President Ed Mytty.

Part of the crowd, waiting for the main course.

Senior Banquet . . .

The Star of the North Ballroom at the Radisson Hotel on February 21 was a beautiful setting for the Senior Banquet. The banquet and the short program which followed it seemed ablaze with flash bulb lights as photographers angled in at forks holding slippery salads, or Mr. Lindman talking as usual, or Mrs. Lemke squealing in surprise, or Floyd Stabe adjusting his monocle.

The dance floor afterwards looked like a garden as girls in their lovely, flower-like dresses moved gracefully with their escorts to the rhythm of Jerry Dibble's band. At one point the band forsook the sophisticated rhythms and moved into a few polkas. Formality was forgotten and shoes came off . . . It seemed the evening had just begun, when it was over—a sparkling memory.

Here's one Senior activity Mrs. Lemke didn't plan!

Senior Banquet Night turned out to be Senior Class Adviser Night, too. It seemed to us that the myriad of details Mrs. Lemke handled for our class, and her un-failing good sense and humorous spirit, should be recognized for what they were—a kind of mortar holding our entire class together. So, we hid ourselves out and bought some presents — a black sweater, a carved ivory necklace and earring set, and, naturally, a corsage. To kid her a little at first, we presented her with a whistle; being a physical education instructor, that didn't seem to surprise her. But the scroll, with all our signatures, did. Her reactions you can see in these pictures — but the sound effects are missing!

Class President Ed Mytty doesn't seem bashful, as most men are, about the corsage-pinning job, but maybe that's because Carol Roo is helping. (So many hands! Seems someone would get stuck! Such a prospect doesn't seem to worry Mrs. Lemke—maybe she was numb, anyhow.)

Awards . . .

"Dreams woven into the real thread of our lives become ambitions leading us to unattainable goals, purposes which fire us to impossible deeds, desires vital enough to secure the unreachable. Today is life—the only life we have. Today is ours. Do not slight it. Do not pass over it lightly. Build into it, into this Today, the finest fabric of your dreams, and your dreams become realities."
